

Peter Smarts Confessions

Reissue to follow up publication of Paul Baileys new novel Kitty and Virgil. Both Peter Smarts Confessions and Gabriels Lament were shortlisted for the Booker Prize. The eponymous hero of Peter Smarts Confessions, an unhappy husband and none-too-successful actor, is writing after a suicide attempt. Peters mother, as an actor friend enthusiastically points out, is a comic monster: If you put her in a book -- as they say -- no one would believe her...Only Wagner could do her justice. Shes matched by the larger-than-life eccentric, F. Leonard Cottle, randy retired doctor and author of With Stethoscope and Scalpel, who employs Peters mother as housekeeper after her husband dies. Cottle introduces the boy Peter to the facts of life. There are some bravura-satirical set pieces on playwrights, players and critics: the staging and reception of a revolutionary production of Hamlet based on the premise that he was suffering from congenital syphilis, a pointed parody of Eliots The Cocktail Party.
